AMUSEMENTS

"Irene."

"Irene."

The Vanderbilt Producing company will offer the new musical comedy hit. "Irene," at the Lyric Thursday, Friday and Saturday and Christmas matinee, dressed in the latest style gowns and set in an elaborate scenic background. The book is by James Montgomery, the lyrics by Joseph McCarthy and the music by Harry Tierney. "Irene" is a pretty lave story with scenes laid in New York city. It has an abundant supply of genuine comedy and a varied assortment of irresistible musical gems. This attraction is presented here after having stood the acid test of a solid year's run in New York, where it is still playing to capacity at the Vanderbilt theater, while American companies are playing it at the Empire theater in London and in Melbourne, with the same great success that attested its presentation on this side of the Atlantic, where it is known as the greatest piece of theatrical property in existence, and the greatest international triumph of modern times. Every member of the organization presenting the play in this city has had their schooling with the New York company, they having had to play a certain time with that organization to qualify before having been given contracts for the present tour.

Patrons of Loew's State get final opportunity to see Rainbow and Mohawk, twentleth century Indians, and also to hear Maleta Boncon! the celebrated woman violinist. Chief Rainbow is the proud possessor of a real Indian war honnet that is more than 100 years old.
The feathers in it were taken from American bald cagles, birds now almost extinct. Chief Rainbow obtained the bonnet from a Ute chief in Salt Lake city, after prolonged and strenuous bargaining. The Ute chief told numerous tales of warlike deeds in connection with the bonnet's history and today the bonnet is one of Rainbow's most prized possessions.

Orpheum.

He who first conceived the idea of aking a miscellaneous assortment of imusement ingredients and putting hem together calling the composite a nusical comedy, deserves a place in he hall of fame, for he was as great a benefactor to the theater-going public as many of the inventors and scientists who have solved problems, helping to advance public conveniences and comforts. Musical comedy is probably he most enjoyable form of amusement accupying the stage today, and it doesn't matter whether it is a tabloid version intended for vaudeville or a padded article presented in the legitimate theater. One of the most prolific and successful productors is George Choos, and one of the best of his output is. The Love Shop, at the Orpheum this week, in which he stars that excellent comedian, Eddie Voet, and features those excellent vaudevillians. Harry and Grace Ellsworth. The books, lyrics and music of "The Love Shop" are by a trio of writers well known to the theater, each of whom has qualified as an expert in his own line of endeavor. The plece is replete in all that is best in musical comedy and the young women of the chorus have been selected by a beauty expert.

Majestic.

Suppose you were a nice girl, poor, pretly and a singer. And you took a job in the chorus of a show to try to earn your own living. And one morning you read in the paper that you had a choice line of floral kisses to give away—"Chaste lily of the valley kisses, scorching rambler kisses, tantalizing honeysuckle twisters," etc. Wouldn't you want to fight somebody? And if you knew your beau read that press agent's story, too, wouldn't you want too go jump off the bridge at midnight? Wanda Hawley demonstrates in "Food for Scandal," coming to the Majestic Thursday.

Princess.

Gaston Glass, who plays the leading role in "Humoresque," at the Princess Wednesday and Thursday, has the distinction of being the godson of Sarah Bernhardt. Glass was born in Paris and made his debut on the Prench stage at the age of five. Later he was engaged by Mme. Bernhardt for her repertoire comedy and appeared with the distinguished tragedienne in "Cleopatra," "Camille" and "Jeanne d'Arc."

Lyceum.

Wednesday gives Memphians the last chance to see fascinating Louise Glaum in "Love Madness." declared to be the best example of real artistry this famous screen star has yet produced at Loew's Lyceum. In addition to the feature film a new Sunshine comedy. "Hold Me Tight." In which the rated Sunshine bathing girls also appear, is being shown for the last times. Miss Glaum has won scores of admirers by her work in this production, in which she has the best opportunity to reveal that she is an actress of exceptional powers. Strand.

"Idois of Clay." featuring Mae Murray and David Powell at the Strand this week, brings together on a South Sea isle a young London sculptor who, faith in his career and in mankind shattered by an unscrupulous woman, has drifted to the tropics, and an innocent smuggler. The girl falls in loye with the handsome stranger. Later events lead to their separation, but finally, after the girl of the South Seas has experienced the dizzy heights of London Bohemian society and the shadowy dens of the Limehouse underworld, they are reunited.
